

Double Major Courses (at least 117 credits)

1. English (at least 42 credits)

1.1 Compulsory courses (36 credits)

ENC111	English for Communication I	3(2-2-5)
ENC112	English for Communication II	3(2-2-5)
ENC221	English Oral Communication	3(2-2-5)
ENC322	English for Discussion and Presentation	3(2-2-5)
ENC131	English Reading for Information Literacy	3(2-2-5)
ENC332	English Analytical and Critical Reading	3(2-2-5)
ENC241	English Composition	3(2-2-5)
ENC342	English Note-Taking and Summarizing	3(2-2-5)
ENC351	Principles of English Translation	3(3-0-6)
ENC261	English Linguistics	3(3-0-6)
ENC171	Language Use	3(2-2-5)
ENC481	English for Occupational Communication	3(3-0-6)

1.2 Elective courses (at least 6 credits)

ENC223	English Public Speaking	3(2-2-5)
ENC343	Creative Writing	3(2-2-5)
ENC262	English Phonetics	3(3-0-6)
ENC363	Morphology and Syntax	3(3-0-6)
ENC272	English for Academic Communication	3(3-0-6)
ENC373	Principles of English Language Teaching	3(2-2-5)
ENC282	English for Commerce	3(2-2-5)
ENC283	English for Tourism and Hospitality Management	3(2-2-5)
ENC384	English for Advertisement and Public Relations	3(2-2-5)
ENC385	English for Business Conference	3(2-2-5)
ENC386	Business English Translation	3(3-0-6)
ENC387	English for Event and Convention Management	3(2-2-5)

Course Description

1. English

1.1 Compulsory courses

- ENC111 English for Communication I 3(2-2-5)
Practice of listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills for communication with an emphasis on differences in languages and cultures that may cause communication breakdown
- ENC112 English for Communication II 3(2-2-5)
Practice of listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills with an emphasis on the use of communication strategies in English
- ENC221 English Oral Communication 3(2-2-5)
Practice of listening and speaking skills related to the contexts; the use of listening and speaking strategies
- ENC322 English for Discussion and Presentation 3(2-2-5)
Practice of skills such as expressing ideas, discussion as participants and moderators, and presentation in public
- ENC131 English Reading for Information Literacy 3(2-2-5)
Principles of reading for information; practice of reading skills and techniques through various types of publications in the information age
- ENC332 English Analytical and Critical Reading 3(2-2-5)
Principles and processes of using analytical and critical thinking skill; practice of analytical and critical reading skills through the reading of argumentative texts
- ENC241 English Composition 3(2-2-5)
Elements of English composition; practice of writing an essay focusing on descriptive and narrative writing with an emphasis on process, objectives of writing, unity, and the audience
- ENC342 English Note-Taking and Summarizing 3(2-2-5)
Practice of English note-taking from listening and reading to get the main ideas, summarize, and convey messages

- ENC351 Principles of English Translation 3(3-0-6)
Principles and linguistic concepts of translation; practice of translation of various texts; a study of various translation strategies; problems and possible solutions in translation
- ENC261 English Linguistics 3(3-0-6)
Basic English phonology, morphology and syntax, and semantics; practice of applying these concepts into English communication in everyday life
- ENC171 Language Use 3(2-2-5)
Principles of language use; practice of using English structures for different communicative purposes, situations, and contexts; language functions; roles of communicators
- ENC481 English for Occupational Communication 3(3-0-6)
English language patterns used for different occupations; the use of English language in occupational contexts following principles and communicative patterns of occupational groups
- 1.2 Elective courses
- ENC223 English Public Speaking 3(2-2-5)
Principles and practice of public speaking based on rhetorical, aesthetic, and motivational concepts by using languages, tone, gestures, and public speaking materials
- ENC343 Creative Writing 3(2-2-5)
Practice of using different writing styles; strategies for comparing different styles of writing; the use of imagination for writing fiction and non-fiction; figurative language in different types of writing; practice of writing short novels, short stories, captions, poems, screenplays and play scripts
- ENC262 English Phonetics 3(3-0-6)
English phonetics, articulatory phonetics, acoustic phonetics, auditory phonetics and the transcription of consonant and vowel sounds with phonetic alphabets
- ENC363 Morphology and Syntax 3(3-0-6)
Methodologies of morphological and syntactic analysis to see the relationships among morphemes, syntactic structures and meaning
- ENC272 English for Academic Communication 3(3-0-6)
The use of English language for academic communication; listening, speaking, reading, and writing for communication in an academic context

ENC373 Principles of English Language Teaching 3(2-2-5)

Practice of English language teaching; lesson planning to be in line with course objectives; classroom communication; evaluation methodologies through teaching and learning evaluation materials

ENC282 English for Commerce 3(2-2-5)

Practice of conversational skills through various situations of commercial business; information exchange for business communication; telephone communication; appointment scheduling; using Electronic Commerce for purchasing and selling goods; trading negotiation; reading and writing business documents, and product advertisement

ENC283 English for Tourism and Hospitality Management 3(2-2-5)

Patterns of English for hotel and tourism industries; providing information and recommendations on tourism packages, famous tourist attractions, transportation, accommodation, food, beverages and facilities in the hotel and tourism industries

ENC384 English for Advertisement and Public Relations 3(2-2-5)

Practice of using English for the purpose of public relations in business organizations; writing news reports and public relations columns in publications, announcements, newsletters, brochures, and speeches with an emphasis on presenting information

ENC385 English for Business Conference 3(2-2-5)

Practice of using English for business conferences, organizing conferences, expressing ideas, showing agreement or disagreement during conference discussions, note-taking and writing minutes of the meetings

ENC386 Business English Translation 3(3-0-6)

Principles of business translation; translation of news reports, articles, and contracts including English to Thai and Thai to English translation

ENC387 English for Event and Convention Management 3(2-2-5)

Practice of using English for organizing, preparing, managing, promoting, and evaluating seminars, exhibitions, conventions, and international festival events